Periods and continents diverge to give birth to this oriental collection. The “Arabian Nights” collection will be composed of 5 perfumes, 5 olfactive harmonies, all built around essential oils with strong symbolic values from the East: Oud, Rose, Incense, Amber and Musk. PURE OUD and ROSE OUD are the first stopovers of this olfactive trip.

Oud is an extremely rare and precious oil found in Agarwood, the resinous heartwood of the Aquilaria tree from southeast Asia. The oil itself is dark in coloration and has a complex scent, being warm and woody, yet strongly animalistic at the same time. In many Middle Eastern countries, Oud is believed to be worth more than its weight in gold. To echo this belief, the Kilian bottle has a gold plaque engraved with the name of the perfume and the box is decorated with a gold plaque on the top.

PURE OUD by Kilian was not composed as a literal translation of the Oud oil in its purest form. Instead, it was composed as a contemporary interpretation of Oud, for those who appreciate and value the richness of the fragrance note itself. In order to create this interpretation, Calice Becker has layered the Oud's oil with other essential oils such as Papyrus oil, Gaiac wood oil, Copahu balm and Saffron oil. In doing so, PURE OUD by Kilian takes on a gold coloration which seems only fitting given the symbolism of gold throughout the scents theme. The scent remains warm and woody yet evokes a sense of modernity and elegance.

ROSE OUD by Kilian is a more feminine interpretation of Oud by Calice Becker, using the luxurious petals of the Turkish Rose. This unusual combination of Rose with Oud in a fragrance gives birth to a scent that is both mysterious, rich and opulent yet comfortably familiar. As always now, unexpected accords become Kilian's signature.

PURE OUD and ROSE OUD by Kilian are an invitation to discover the olfactive charms of the Middle East.
